Brothers Recycling Adds AEDs from Cardiac Solutions!

Brothers Recycling has teamed up with Cardiac Solutions to add Automatic External Defibrillators to their facilities. Sudden Cardiac Arrest, a life-threatening emergency that occurs when the heart suddenly stops beating properly, is the third leading cause of death in the United States. When SCA occurs, quick access to a working AED can be the difference between life and death!

“The safety of our employees and customers is our number one priority. With the addition of AEDs through Cardiac Solutions, we are pleased to know we have the capability to immediately help someone at our facility who may experience a Sudden Cardiac Arrest,” said Brothers Recycling owner Jason Stein. Jon Seale, CEO of Cardiac Solutions, noted, “Automatic External defibrillators truly save lives! We are excited to partner with another local business and provide AEDs to help them enhance the safety of their employees and customers.”

Brothers Recycling is a family owned and operated business in Birmingham, Alabama, with a goal of building a long, loyal and trusting relationship with all of our customers.

Cardiac Solutions is a world leader in public access defibrillator programs who works to advance the deployment of life-saving defibrillation therapy for the treatment of sudden cardiac arrest in non-traditional areas of care. Cardiac Solutions offers a comprehensive portfolio of AED program solutions that includes planning, design, implementation, administration, medical oversight, training, and management through a single point of contact.
